

12

Environmental Impacts from the Green Bean Crop

This article presents the bean production systems of major impact on the environment and includes the techniques to improve the growing systems in both mesh and outdoor greenhouses.

40

History of the Spinach

In this new section which started in the previous issue, Hugo Giambanco de Ena talks about both the history and properties of the spinach.

22

Quality of the Oil from the Brassicas Cultivated in Galicia

The type of oil varies depending on the brassicas species used in its preparation. This article highlights the main properties that provide quality to this product.

44

Investment in Technology and the Innovation Cycle

Manuel Madrid talks about the importance of investing in R & D, a sector absolutely essential for the development of new technologies.

26

Structures of the Wholesale Ornamental Trade in Europe

To the global crisis that affect severely the ornamental industry, entrepreneurs are seeking for solutions that reduce costs without affecting the quality of the product for an increasingly demanding customer.

46

Barcelona receive the Agricultural Technology

The fruit and vegetable exports from Spain reached during 2008 the 8.010 millions of Euros; José Alvarez explains that he believes this figure will remain and grow during the next years.

30

Trade Marks for the Crisis

Today it is basic that trade marks are in mind of the client. Therefore the companies communicate more and more to improve their sales.

48

Google Applications in Agriculture

May issue begins to publish some articles on the help that agricultural enterprises can obtain from Google site.